

Training on Honey Box Making & Weaving cum Sewing

A Training programme on ‘honey box making for additional income generation’ was organized by ICAR Nagaland Centre at C.K. Udyog office, Bahana, Jorhat during November 21-23. This training programme was sponsored by National Agricultural Innovation Project (NAIP) component III, a project aimed primarily to promote the agricultural development in economically most backward districts of India and build up capacity to withstand the future challenges. Three interested participants, Mr. Yoeu Konyak, Mr. Chingong Konyak and Mr. Pongnyei Konyak from Lampong Sheanghah village of Mon district attended this training programme and it was imparted by Mr. Lilacharan Dutta and his dedicated team.

Another training programme on “Weaving cum Sewing for Women Empowerment at Mon District of Nagaland” was also conducted at Department of Clothing and Textile, College of Home Science, Assam Agricultural University, Jorhat during November 21-30. The program was inaugurated by the Dean, College of Home Science in presence of Mrs. Ava Phukon, Principal Scientist and Head, Clothing and Textiles and other professors of the department: Mrs. Bulbul Baruah, Mrs. Nivedita Gogoi, Mrs. B. B. Kalita, Mrs. S. Kaur and Technical officer of ICAR, Mr. N. C. Borah. This was a great learning opportunity for the 5 participants, Mrs. Angap Konyak, Mrs. Angon Konyak, Mrs. Nakhao Konyak, Mrs. Nahlen Konyak and Mrs. Angap Konyak of Lampong Sheanghah village, Mon. The trainees learnt the latest techniques of weaving, knitting and sewing during these 10 days period, so that they can earn handsome money in every month. The valedictory function on 30th November was graced by the presence of Head, Extension Division, Dr. Manju Datta Das.

Participants learning honey box making at CK Udyog

Head, Extension Division distributes certificate to a participant

Trainees at training on weaving cum sewing at AAU, Jorhat